

I support Don Senger's comments, sent via e-mail 6/25/2004. His comments were in regards to the placement on the screen of the captioning. The preferred location, I agree, is at the bottom of the screen. However, one additional point, if it is an interview situation and the name of the person is flashed at the bottom the captioner needs to include that name in the captioning as the captioning always covers this information and you don't know who is talking.
